

ROYAL FEVER AT AN ALL TIME HIGH

Seaway News, Friday, April 15, 2011 pg. 69

With what is sure to go down in the history books as the Royal event of the decade, the wedding of HRH Prince William of Wales and Catherine Elizabeth Middleton has created a never before seen resurgence in Monarchy Commemorative collecting (not since the wedding of Princess Diana to Prince Charles have collectors' pieces been available).

We at Theresa Taylor Auctioneering are very honored to announce that a quite substantial collection of Royalty Commemorative items (especially of Queen Victoria) will be up for auction at our annual Good Friday Auction to be held on April 22, 2011 in Cornwall, Ontario at the Ramada Inn. These exquisite, one of a kind and very sought after pieces are from the estate of the late Mr. Raymond Thompson

Our friend and colleague, Fraser Williamson (British Royalty Commemorative Collector & President of the Auctioneer's Association of Ontario) had the following to say about the collection: "This collection has something for everyone: pieces for the novice, and experienced collectors. With the success of the Movie "The Kings Speech" and the upcoming Royal wedding the market for British Royalty Commemoratives increased in value. What is interesting about collecting British Royalty Commemoratives is that it crosses over into so many other collectibles: porcelain, spoons, medals, beer trays, paperweights, and artworks. This collection contains items from the reign of Victoria to the reign of Queen Elizabeth II. The list of monarchs during the period are: Victoria 1837-1901, George V 1911-1936, Edward VII (abdicated the throne to marry Wallis Simpson, Late Duke of Windsor), George VI (also known as Bertie and was main character in the movie "The Kings Speech") and Elizabeth II."

Don't let this opportunity pass you by, come and join-in the fun of our auction! There will be over 100 different Royalty pieces available and much more! Visit our website at www.theresataylor.com to view all of the items we've been commissioned to auction as part of our biggest events of the year!
